Coordinator Spotlight

My name is Carmen Amigon and I am PFE coordinator at Abilene Junior Academy. I am a first-generation Mexican American. My story begins with my parents' immigration from Mexico to the Bronx, New York, where my two older siblings and I were born. We then moved to Passaic, New Jersey, where I grew up and started my path as a Seventh-day Adventist at my home church, La Iglesia Adventista del Séptimo Día.

In 2016, I embarked on a solo journey and came to Texas to attend Southwestern Adventist University to improve my education, leaving behind my family, church, and neighborhood. When I first arrived to SWAU, I enrolled in general studies because I wasn't sure what career I wanted. Later, after taking an introductory education class, I fell in love with teaching and I decided to major in elementary education. During my first year, I struggled with coursework and self-doubt, frequently blaming myself for not being good enough. I confronted these uncertainties with my trust in God and pushed through my difficulties. I also met and fell in love with my now-husband, whom I recently married. I graduated in 2020 and am now a Headteacher at Abilene Junior Academy.

I stumbled upon the Partnering for Eternity Scholarship when helping a former student of mine look for aid online. I decided to apply because the program's values align with mine and I wanted my students to have the opportunity to participate. Although we just started PFE, I love the relationships I have made with students so far. I love creating relationships with students who also struggle with education and hope my story can inspire them to move forward and put their faith in God.

Virtual Visits

Q: What can I do for my PFE visit if my mentor is sick?

A: Virtual visits do not count as scholarship time. If your mentor is sick, you can deliver a care package/food or participate in a service activity for them (raking their yard, weeding their garden, etc.) as your weekly visit.
